Washroom Design: Hygiene & Wellness

Design adapts to new rules of social interaction. During the pandemic, washrooms were furnished with sanitising accessories, every other cubicle locked, and every other urinal sealed to allow social distancing. This CPD will cover how going forwards, washroom design will have to adapt even further.

As experts in the washroom industry, we are passionate about how design can influence post-pandemic architecture. In the last two years, hygiene in building design has become more relevant than ever. The question is, how are buildings going to change in the future?
